DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 2, 5, 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Wharton. The patent to Wharton teaches structure as claimed including collapsible pallet, comprising an upper deck (22), a foot member disposed on the upper deck, the foot member comprising a first foot half disposed on the upper deck, the first foot half having a pin disposed thereon, and a second foot half, the second foot half having a hole disposed therein for receiving the pin, and a lower deck (24) comprising the second foot half, the pin is slidably disposed in the hole.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.

Art Unit: 3637

2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 9-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wharton. The patent to Wharton teaches structure substantially as claimed including deck members the only difference being the specific weight per area percentage. However, the use of different degrees of weight per area percentages are matters of desirability and choice and materials used which would have been and well within the level of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention since such results are matters of materials and engineering mechanic, thereby providing structure as claimed.

Claims 3-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wharton as applied to the claims above, and further in view of Francis. The patent to Wharton teaches structure substantially as claimed as discussed above including connecting pin structure , the only difference being that the hole is not a keyhole slot type structure . However, the patent to Francis teaches the use of providing keyhole slot and pin structure for connection to be old. It would have been obvious and well within the level of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to modify the structure of Wharton to include a keyhole slot connecting structure as taught by Francis since such structures are conventional alternative structures used in the same intended purpose, thereby providing structure as claimed.

Claims 7-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wharton as applied to the claims above, and further in view of Daley. The patent to Wharton teaches structure substantially as claimed as discussed above including a foot structure, the only difference being that there is no foam insert to strengthen the foot. However, the patent to Daley teaches the use of providing foam to be old. It would have been obvious and well within the level of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to modify the structure of Wharton to include foam inserts as taught by Daley to provide increased strength since such structures are conventional alternative structures used in the same intended purpose, thereby providing structure as claimed.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The patents to Delany, Brown, Durand, Barber, Young teach structure similar to applicant's.
